HTTYD - RTTE: Double the Fury, Double the Fun

by TheTombedSpirit

Category: How to Train Your Dragon
Genre: Adventure, Romance
Language: English
Characters: Dagur, Hiccup, OC, Toothless
Pairings: Toothless/OC
Status: In-Progress
Published: 2015-07-18 17:29:37
Updated: 2016-02-11 12:07:40
Packaged: 2016-04-27 08:01:51
Rating: T
Chapters: 5
Words: 4,944
Publisher: www.fanfiction.net
Summary: One day, on one of the Islands of the Great Beyond, the gang finds something unbelievable... a Light Fury! And she seems that she's caught the eyes of a certain black dragon, who is smitten with the beauty, and a deranged viking, who is impressed with her strength and prowess. Who will win the affection and loyalty of this bizarre creature?

1. Twice the Fury, Part I

Double the Fury, Double the Fun.

Twice the Fury part one. **

Everything was quiet at Dragon's Edge so far, Hiccup Horrendous Haddock III and his Night Fury, Toothless were off flying with Astrid Hofferson and her Deadly Nadder, Stormfly, looking for new dragons on one of the neighbouring islands. Tuffnut and Ruffnut Thorston were in their boar pit, with their Zippleback, Barf and Belch, watching them with annoyed expressions on both of their heads. Snotlout Jorgenson was off flying with his Monstrous Nightmare, Hookfang, practicing his new moves so he could be ready to use them when they find new dragons to mangle with. Fishlegs Ingerman was in his hut studying the Dragon's Eye with his Gronckle, Meatlug, hoping to study the symbols and see what they mean.

It has been a few months since they decided to go out to the Great Beyond and see if they could find anymore dragons, and boy, they sure found some alright. They found whole islands of them, and they are ready to find some, but so far, on Hiccup and Toothless's endâ€¦ nothing. Not a dragon in sight on one particular island, but so far they found nothing.

"Well bud'?" Hiccup finally sighed, having combed the same part of the island over and over, "I think we should go to the other side, maybe there's something there." He said, pointing to the route where Astrid and Stormfly went, "Maybe the girls are having more luck then we are, huh?" he smiled slightly, "Let's-" a piercing screech suddenly cut through the air, causing Hiccup to let go of the saddle bars and cover his ears, while Toothless looked around, trying to find out where the cry came from. When the ringing in his ears finally subsided, Hiccup lowered his hands and copied his dragon's intentions, "Sounds like a D.I.D, Dragon in Distress!" the Night Fury let out a roar that echoed across the land, they waited a minute until they heard another cry, come from the West.

"Well bud? What are we waiting for?" Toothless nodded and took off west.

The desperate cries of the troubled dragon were still heard as Hiccup and Toothless followed the sad sound.

"I was riding when I heard the sound!" Astrid came up beside him, riding on Stormfly, "Yeah," a new voice came out, the couple turned to see the rest of the gang, the voice came from Fishlegs, "We heard the sound from even Dragon's Edge!" "Hiccup, what do you think it is?!" Astrid interrupted. "Everyone CALM DOWN!" Hiccup exclaimed, everyone fell silent, "I'm sure there is a reasonableâ€¦" he trailed off when he spotted conflict beyond some rocks, which included screams of terror, outranged roars, and white light with a tint of light blue in the flashes.

"There!" Hiccup pointed to that exact direction, "Let's go stealth, we don't know exactly is going on, stay sharp!" he instructed, moving in with the others close behind until they came to some stone walls and hid behind them, hoping to spy on the situation. The sight had everyone bug-eyed.

Before them was a dragon that looked too much like Toothless! But instead of midnight black scales, its skin was pure white! No-one noticed that Toothless all of the sudden went googly eyed at the creature, which was apparently female, and couldn't help but smile at the beautiful beast. It was Love at First Sight. But something was wrong, she was under attack! And by Dagur the Deranged, by any chance! Obviously trying to ether kill or enslave her, but she seemed too stubborn to submit.

He liked her already, "Well, men," Dagur announced to his thugs, "What shall we do to this one? Kill or catch?" his men snickered at the thought, but it quickly faded to sneers when she snarled at them, they position their weapons, prepared for the killing blow.

Well here's what I got so far, this is obviously based around How to Train Your Dragon: Race to the Edge. Hope you like it! Please review and all that stuff, and check out the other stories I got so far! I see you later! B-bye!

2. Twice the Fury, Part II

Hey guys! Sorry I've been gone a while, but I'm back and ready to finish this baby! Let's jump right in!

* * *

>Double the Fury, Double the Fun.

* * *

>The white dragon growled deeply as Dagur's men raised their weapons. Toothless started growling to, and Hiccup noticed. "Hey bud? You okay?" he whispered to his friend, only for him to fly off the saddle as the Night Fury glided towards the fight and jumped in front of the female, growling at the approaching men.

"Well, well, well! If Mr. Night Fury is here then my brother can't be far away!" Dagur smirked, looking towards the rock the kids were hiding behind, "I'm not your brother!" Hiccup yelled at him as he and the Dragon Rider's descended on them.

After a long and hard battle, they finally fled, but not before the Berserker cursed him and vowed revenge.

After they left, Toothless turned to the white dragon and began to approach her. She saw him as a threat and hissed at him and flew away. Hiccup hurriedly ran over to him and jumped on him, "We have to catch her, see if it's alright!" the Riders nodded and got on their dragons.

Their search got them in the middle of forest, where the white dragon seemed to go in all directions! "Split up! We'll cover more ground that way and find her easier.

Snotlout and Hookfang spotted her easy in maze of trees and immediately gave chase, "This will be easy!" he shouted as Hookfang flew faster but he just couldn't keep up! It seemed like she kept leading them to the same place!

"Maybe this wont be so easy." he muttered as Hookfang tried his best to stay aloft, but it was for nothing when a horde of trees began to fall on them, "Mama." he whimpered as the trees trapped them under the rubble, scorch marks on the root of the problem.

The white dragon landed on top of the rubble and roared in triumph, before spits of lava landed on the trees she was on and she immediately took flight, hissing at her attacker. It was Fishlegs and Meatlug! She growled and flew off, the two giving chase.

They found her near the rock towers in the water that Hiccup and Toothless would train in. As she maneuvered, effortlessly through the ups and downs. The white dragon was more agile and swift then the slow and sluggish Gronckle. Then she turned around mid flight and blasted one of the rock towers with a yellow plasma blast, causing the rocks to fall and knock Fishlegs off of Meatlug and held onto one of the remaining rocks for dear life, but then she blasted the rock again and he let go in fright and fell, but then, Barf's head, with Ruffnut on his head, shot out and caught him on top and placed him gently on the top of the rock next to Meatlug as she sat there, panting.

Then Belch's head appeared beside him with Tuffnut on him and they took off again and took their turn of chasing her.

But she didn't fly off, she stayed in her place in the sky and waited for them to come to her, but being so thick, they didn't notice.

"This will be like taking candy from a baby." Tuff boasted as his sister nodded, smiling smugly.

The Zippleback charged at her, snapping their jaws at her but she dodged each attack, until their necks were tied in a knot. They struggled to get themselves unstuck but only succeeded in throwing themselves off and landing on a cliff nearby, where they continued to struggle.

The white dragon seemed to smirk at the sight, not noticing Hiccup and Astrid coming from behind on their dragons. "This dragon's smart. _Really _smart. She seems to know her advantages when facing a specific dragon. We got to handle this as a team!" Hiccup told her, getting the net out as Toothless did nothing but stare at the creature in awe and wonder.

"Okay bud," he was shook out of his thoughts when Hiccup patted him on the neck, "We need your speed for this one, ready?" he nodded, getting his head back in the game and zoomed down towards her, Hiccup holding one part of the net and Astrid holding the other.

She still hadn't noticed them but it did when they caught her in their net! She struggled, but then Astrid got Stormfly to shoot her tail spikes at the holes and pin her down.

She roared in anguish and a bit of fear but she kept on struggling as the others got out of their predicaments and arrived with caution. Fishlegs had a few scraps on his arms and legs, Snotlout was covered in bruises and leaves, Hookfang in the same condition. Tuff and Ruff weren't as roughed up, but behind them, Barf and Belch were still struggling to get themselves loose.

She roared at them as they got closer slowly, not wanting to agitate her. Too late. She resorted to shooting small plasma blast, like Toothless's but were yellow instead of blue.

Hiccup held his hand out and she stopped struggling, now looking at him and his hand in anticipation. He hand was now a centimeter away from her snout, waiting for her to respond. She pushed her muzzle into his hand finally relaxing.

"Awe, I _love _it when he does the hand thing!" Fishlegs exclaimed quietly. He always found it fascinating. Hiccup then noticed that her wing was a bit torn up, no doubt thanks to Dagur.

"Her wing needs a bit of patching up! Let's get this baby home!" Hiccup announced once she calmed down, everyone nodded, before Barf and Belch rolled behind them, _still _stuck. "But... first let's help them out." they nodded quickly, and ran after them, leaving the white dragon under the care of the other dragons.

The Rider's dragons kept well away from her, except for Toothless, who was approaching her slowly and quietly, not wanting her to react badly. She didn't hiss, she just stared at him with her ice blue eyes in anticipation. He crooned softly, and she chirped back.

This was getting interesting.

* * *

>Dragon's Edge.

The Riders watched the white dragon walk around the Stables in wonder, her wing now bandaged up to her chest, so she couldn't fly. But that didn't stop her from jumping around the place to look at every inch of it.

"Well, it seems the Light Fury is fitting in nicely!" Hiccup said with a smile, Snotlout looked at him, frowning, "Light Fury?" "Yeah! That's what I'm calling it! Since it looks like Toothless and is white instead of black!" he explained, "Have you even voted?"

"All in favor say 'Light Fury'?" "Light Fury!" everyone raised their hand. Snotlout paused, "Just wanted to make sure! It actually sounded cool! But what are we _name _naming her?" Hiccup paused. He didn't think of that.

"I-I don't know." he was interrupted but Toothless jumping over them with a bucket of fish. He handed it to her, his teeth retracted as he smiled, making him look cute. She smiled the same kind of smile and took the fish, before handing some to him, which he took.

"Hey, how about Heaven?" Fishlegs suggested and Hiccup tried it, "Heaven...Heaven... That actually has a nice ring to it!" He complemented, smiling at him before looking back at the two Furies.

"Welcome to the family, Heaven." he smiled as Toothless and Heaven chirped at each other happily.

* * *

>And it's done! Sorry I've been away for so long, it's just that the others stories that I've been writing has really got me hung so... I'll do better next time! Promise! See you in the next chapter!

3. Knowing What Your Made Of

Hey guys! Sorry I've been gone a while, but I'm back and ready to finish this baby! Let's jump right in!

* * *

>Double the Fury, Double the Fun.

Chapter Three; Knowing What Your Made Of.
>

* * *

>Things were quiet at Dragon's Edge.

Everyone was at the training base, Fishlegs was holding a notebook and a pencil, ready to right down. Hiccup was by his side with Astrid, Snotlout and the twins, each with their own respected dragon. Heaven was in there as well, looking at the dummies ahead of her in confusion.

They were going to see just what a Light Fury could do. Her wing has healed up nicely over the days, and was almost in tip-top shape.

"Alright Heaven," the Light Fury looked over at Hiccup, who was watching with curious and gentle eyes, "We're gonna see just what you can do. We'll see how fast you are in the sky when your wing is better, but until then, we'll just see what you can do on the ground. Fishlegs. Ready to take notes?" the future chef asked the smartest of the groups, who held up his notebook and pencil ready.

"Good. Ready Heaven?" he asked the white Dragon, who squawked at him in determination. Toothless couldn't suppress a smile. He had tried to get close to her since she got here and they have been going well quiet fluently. But he hadn't gotten so close to make her fall for him. Not yet anyway. Hiccup _had _noticed his _extremely _friendly behavior and tried to remind him that once she's fully healed, and documented in the Book of Dragons, that she'll be sent back to the wild, but his advice fell on deaf ears.

She got into a battle stance, eyes narrowed at the dummies, her teeth gleaming in the light.

"First; Attack. We want to see what kind of damage you can do, okay girl?" Fishlegs asked, she nodded, and turned back to one of the dummies, who suspiciously looked like Snotlout.

She charged.

And cut the dummy in half with her claws in a millisecond.

Everyone, including the Dragons, stared at the dummy in shock, before Fishlegs wrote down the exact power she used to cut that dummy in half, and showed Hiccup.

"15. Nice." he smiled at Heaven, who held her head up proudly, then looked smugly at Toothless. His attack number was 15 too. He smiled a toothless smile back.

"Alright, let's see how fast you are." she smiled, getting into position, before zooming around in a circle in her top speed. Everyone's heads followed her, trying to keep up, before Tuffnut got dizzy and fell on his back, his sister laughing as he did.

"20." Fishlegs looked dizzy himself.

She deflected some blunt arrows and spears with but her wings.

"Armor; 18."

She blast the dummies that looked like the twins to smithereens.

"Fire power; 14."

The blasts she fired, including the one she used on the dummies were declared 6.

"Shot limit; 6."

She grabbed a log and snapped it in half in one bite.

"Jaw power; 6."

Fishlegs examined the log to check for any poison that could be there from the saliva, but found nothing.

"No venom. All well, doesn't mean your defenseless." he gave her an affectionate pat, to which she purred to.

"So far, she has the same ratings as a Night Fury." Fishlegs told Hiccup, who nodded, looking at the purring Light Fury, who was sitting upright and looking as cute as a kitten.

"So..." the two turned to Snotlout, who despite watching the whole thing, didn't looked impressed. "What your saying is, that Heaven is basically a Night Fury with white scales?" he asked, not seeming to be interested.

"Yes. Yes, we are." Hiccup said, smiling.

"Check that! I absolutely don't care." he turned to leave, only to he knocked aside by a white tail. Heaven chirped smugly at the Viking, who groaned.

"Now, let's see how stealthy you are. Snotlout, you just volunteered." Hiccup told his cousin, who folded his arms and scold. Heaven let a Dragon laugh, that sounded a lot like Toothless's.

* * *

>Four Minutes Later. **

Snotlout and Hookfang stood alone in the middle of the woods, Snotlout holding a shield just encase.

Something white zoomed right past him, making him jumped and Hookfang growl.

It happened again, this time, behind them. They both looked around, almost fearfully, before Snotlout was pinned on the ground by a panting Heaven. Hookfang charged to help his rider, but only succeeded on falling off his feet and landing heavily on Snotlout when she jumped aside and tripped him with her tail.

"We'll call it a draw." Snotlout's muffled voice came from underneath Hookfang's belly as his arm fell limply by his side.

"Stealth; 18. A Light Fury's talents are at the exact same limits as a Night Fury's!" Fishlegs squealed in excitement as he wrote it down on his notebook.

Toothless approached Heaven with a mouthful of fish and laid them on the ground in front of her, and smiled affectionately. She smiled too and ate half of the half he gave her, and nudged the rest to him, to which he excepted.

"Um, Hiccup?" Hiccup turned to see Ruffnut looking a little unsure of what to say as she watched what the two Furies were doing. "You are aware that your Dragon is flirting with the Light Fury, right?"

"Yes, Ruff, I am. I told him he shouldn't get too close to her, because soon her wing will be healed up and then she'll have to go home. But he won't listen to me." he told them, only to hear the twins snicker, and turned to see them giggling while Snotlout snorted.

"If Toothless wants a chance with the lady then he should have just came to me!" Snotlout boasted, before having his butt set on fire by a blue plasma blast. He ran around screaming, until he came across a small pound and jumped in. He sighed in relief, before the pool started the steam, then boil and then jumped out panting, before glaring at the two Furies. If looks could kill, the two Furies might as well be extinct.

"Relax, Snotlout. Their just playing around." Hiccup smiled, but Snotlout didn't return it.

"Whatever, I'm going back to the Edge. Com' on, Hookfang!" he jumped on the Nightmare and flew off. Everyone sighed, before getting on their own respected Dragons and flying off, the twins charged with carrying the Light Fury back home.

Toothless looked back at her, to see her over looking everything as they flew by. He knew that longing look in her eyes. She wanted to fly again, she wanted to be back in the air on her own.

On her own...

That conversation Hiccup had with him came flowing back into his mind. About her one day getting better and then having to return to the wild and he probably would never see her again.

He was going to miss her.

* * *

>Sorry for the wait, but I needed inspiration and I finally have it! I'll see you later!

4. Is This Really 'Goodbye?

Double the Fury, Double the Fun.

Chapter Four; Is This Really 'Goodbye'?

* * *

>It was early in the day, and Fishlegs, Meatlug and Heaven were over by his hut. The two were just about to take the bandage off her wing and see if it was all better. It had already been two weeks since those tests and now they were going to see if she could fly again.

"Alright girl," Fishlegs started as he began to unwind the cloth that folded her wing on her body, "Let see how that wing of yours is." as he undid the bandage, Heaven's gaze shifted all over Dragon's Edge, before moving her gaze to the sky, a longing look to the sky, before a black blur with a spot of red zoomed by.

Her eyes widened as Toothless, with Hiccup on board zoomed by, testing out some new moves they've been working on.

Heaven found herself taken in by him majestic yet gentle nature when they first met and now she really liked him. But she kept quiet about it, knowing that one day she would return to her home, so she tried pushing him away, but she was finding it harder and harder each time she spent more time with him.

She knew that he would miss her, and she would miss him too.

She was so distracted, that she didn't notice that the bandage was off, so kept it wrapped around her body, or didn't notice that the duo were landing.

"Oh, hey Hiccup. I was just about to see if Heaven was all better. Want to try flying, girl? Don't worry, Meatlug will be up there with you if anything goes wrong." to prove his point, he gestured to the sky, where Meatlug was waiting for her a a cheerful smile.

Heaven looked hesitant to fly. What if her wing wasn't fully healed and she fell into the ocean for the Scauldrons?

With a Dragonic sigh, she started off with a few beats of her wings, before they turned into steady strokes that made herself aloft in the air. She roared in pure joy, doing a little spin, before her gaze landed back on Toothless. The Night Fury whined sadly, knowing that now she'll have to go.

"Alright girl," Heaven turned her gaze from the sad Night Fury to the pudgy boy with the note book. "Let's see what you do while in the sky. Alright?" she nodded and zoomed off higher to the sky, until she reached a cloud and they couldn't see anymore of her.

"Interesting. Much like how a Night Fury uses it's scales to blend to the night sky, a Light Fury uses their scales to blend in with the clouds." he wrote that down, and focused back on the white Dragon.

Then Heaven went towards the sun, blinding the two boys and dragons, before her darkened form zoomed right over them, letting out a screech for effect.

"Fascinating. Apparently if there are no clouds around, then she resorts to flying to the sun, to blind her enemies and then swoops down on them as they recover!" he smiled and wrote the information down.

With that shown, she lands, crooning softly as she pushes her snout into Hiccup, who laughs at how affectionate the Dragon is, so much like Toothless.

"Looks like your free to go, girl. We're gonna miss ya." Hiccup patted her as the other riders landed beside them, as respect for having her stay. She cooed at all of them softly, before turning to Toothless.

She looked sadly at him, before zooming off into the sky, her scales blending in with the clouds.

Toothless let out a sad growl, his head lowering in despair. Hiccup noticed his Dragon's sadness and tried to comfort him, but he knew that nothing right now, would cure the emptiness in his heart.

* * *

>To Heaven.
**

Heaven had been flying for a while now, but all she wanted was to turn back and go back to Dragon's Edge. Back to Toothless...

A net with weights came out of nowhere and caught her midair. She screeched in surprise, before falling to the ground with a loud thud.

Stunned and confused, she struggled, before two boots came in her line of sight, and she looked up to see what she had been dreading since she met him.

Dagur...

He smirked evilly at her, as she snarled and struggled.

"Your not my Skrill, but your defiantly one powerful Dragon. So I'll guess you'll have to do." he started to laugh mechanically, as Heaven whimpered, wishing that Toothless was here...

* * *

>OH NO! DAGUR! WHAT DO WE DO?!

Now, big question, if Dagur was going to give Heaven a name himself, what do you think it'll be? Let me know in the reviews.

Speaking of which, don't forget to R,F&F please and I'll see you in the next one.

5. Love and Loyalty

Double the Fury, Double the Fun.

Chapter Five; Love and Loyalty.
>

* * *

>Dagur's Ship.
**

Heaven struggled against her bonds on the deck on her caper's ship since she got here. Dagur was watching her struggles with that sick smirk of his, as if he actually _enjoyed _her pain and confusing.

"You defiantly are a strong one. Much like that Night Fury of Hiccup's." her head shot up at the mention of a Night Fury. Did he meant Toothless?

"Ah! So you know the Night Fury. I always found it weird that Hiccup named him 'Toothless'. I mean, whenever I see him, he's always growling at me!" Heaven had no idea why he was telling her all of this. Maybe he was that crazy.

"Now, I would love to see what you can do, but what to call you? Hmm?" he tapped his chin, as Heaven stared at him weirdly. She already has a name. Why would she want another one? Then again this guy _was _on the short end of the stick of sanity...

"I kinda like Sunstriker the best. What do you think, my pet?" he asked her excitedly, to which she growled at, but he didn't seem to notice. In fact, he looked pleased.

"Sunstriker it is then!" he cheered, "Now, let see what you can do..." with that, he clicked his fingers and two men approached her with a muzzle. A muzzle with reins. This guy was gonna ride her? Hell will be freezing over by the time that happens!

She shot a small plasma blast at their feet, but they just smirked and got closer...

Before a _blue _plasma blast shot from the sky, hitting the muzzle and making them sprawl on the floor!

"What!?" Dagur turn to the sky, enraged when he saw a positively furious Night Fury with a frowning Hiccup on him. The rest of the gang were there with them with their respected Dragons.

They swooped in and took aim at anything in sight. Many men ran away from the Dragons that were assaulting them, but hardly any of them were getting plasma blasts from Toothless, for he was shooting at Dagur out of pure rage. Before flying over to Heaven and blasted her restrains. She stood up and grinned a gummy smile at him, before nuzzling him, making him freeze.

Before he could react, she stepped away from him and growled at the Beserker, who was just getting to his feet. She pounced, pinning him to the ship's floor, glaring at him furiously as he looked back at her, a flicker of fear passing his eyes, before steeling himself. If he was gonna die, he wasn't going to die a coward.

But she didn't kill him. There was something about the redhead that she couldn't quite place, and that is what is making her allow him to live. But before she left, she gave an almighty roar into his face, before flying off, hovering next to Toothless, before flying off with him.

Dagur eventually got over his surprise and yelled in fury. "Don't think this is over, Hiccup! I'll get my Sunstriker back! Just you wait! I'll get my Sunstriker back and I'll make sure she makes your Night Fury! Eat! My! Dirt!" he laughed mechanically, before noticing that Heaven was looking back at him with a questioning look, and for half a second he thought she was gonna fly back to him, but Heaven, not willing to be back in chains, flew back off into the distance.

With Toothless by her side.

* * *

>Back at Dragon's Edge.
**

"Hiccup, what do we do?!"

"Dagur is gonna be chasing Heaven to the edges of the world now!"

"Why didn't Heaven get rid of that guy when she had the chance!?"

"Everybody calm down!"

Everyone fell silent when Hiccup, in very rare moments, yelled. With a deep breath, he turned around to look at Heaven, who was overlooking the sea, letting out a questioning whine every now and then.

"I think she is just as confused about letting Dagur live as the rest of us." he answered Snotlout's question. Before noticing Toothless walking up toward her with some fish and laid them at her feet before sitting next to her. "It kinda reminded me of how Toothless spared me when I first met him." he pondered, before noticing that Heaven inched her way closer to Toothless and the Night Fury did the same thing, before they were inches apart and nuzzled.

"We can't let Heaven go into the wild. Not just yet." Hiccup finally turned to face them, "Dagur will just go after her again. Until we deal with Dagur and he's back behind bars, she stays here. Understood?" he asked and everyone nodded, before looking back at the two Furies.

Toothless looked at her, cooing questioningly, as if asking her if she was alright, to which she cooed back and nuzzled him, before looking back at the sunset.

This was her home now, and this was her new family, and nothing was gonna change that

* * *

>Another one down! See you next time!
**

End
file.